Historic Houses Of New York State

Synopsis

With this well-researched and well-designed book, colorists of all ages can absorb a rich slice of history while they have fun coloring. Noted artist A. G. Smith has carefully rendered 43 famous New York State homes (all currently open to the public and many popular tourist attractions) in clear, crisp line drawings. Among the houses depicted are the Theodore Roosevelt Birthplace, Frick Mansion, and Gracie Mansion, all in Manhattan; Kykuit, the Rockefeller Estate in Pocantico Hills; Sunnyside, the Tarrytown home of Washington Irving; the Susan B. Anthony House in Rochester; the Alice Austen House on State Island; Olana, the exotic riverside home of artist Frederick Edwin Church in the Hudson Valley; the Harriet Tubman House in Auburn; and many more. Informative captions identify and provide background information on each house.

I liked it. The paper is heavy enough, and the artwork is very nice. If I were to make one suggestion it would be to include original colored pictures to give one some idea which colors to use on each picture. It is very relaxing.

I love this coloring book. I'm from Kentucky and Tennessee, but I've actually visited some of the houses in Upstate NY included. My only suggestion is that the pictures be limited to one sided paper, instead of having pictures on both sides. Therefore, I would recommend using only colored pencils or pastels since most markers will bleed through to the back side.

very educational and informative book. Great for architectural studies or historical site tour

Very informational, great illustrations and fun to color!

Good sketches, again like old houses so suits me. Have enjoyed searching the history of the places on internet.

Its ok. Mostly simple line art drawings, but good to practice your shading and color choices with.

Reading the history that is provided with each page, had me googling each house for more info.
